Why Digitize: allow new ways to interact with the content

High Resolution Maps from Sessional Papers: were lost, now are found

- Digitization is the process of converting information online.
- This process is more of a management issue than a technical one.

What is Digitization

1. Locate funding
2. Select materials
3. Check copyright status
4. Check condition for scanning
5. Interlibrary loan
6. Metadata
7. Scan documents
8. Quality Control
9. Make the scanned material findable

The screenshot shows the Government Information Network (GIN) website. The header features the title "Government Information Network" and the tagline "A CLA Network". A navigation menu includes links for "Blog", "About GIN", "Digitized Docs", "Distribution Changes", "Fugitive Docs", "Lost Docs", "Resources", and "Upcoming Events". The "Digitized Docs" section is highlighted, displaying text about scanned debates for 1901-1996 (Senate) and 1901-1993 (House of Commons), and a link to the Canada Treaty Series. A "Pages" sidebar lists various site pages, and the GIN logo is visible at the bottom right.

War Posters from World War II

Enoch Pratt Free Library has completed the digitization of War Posters from World War II. The Enoch Pratt Free Library houses over 1,000 World War I and World War II original posters. Their Web site provides a browseable collection that illustrate the themes and styles that artists used to promote the war effort in the United States.

Canadian Government Publications

Internet Archive Canada, with advice and assistance from government and university librarians across Canada, have digitized more than 20,000 Canadian Government publications and made them freely available online. This page is meant to serve as a portal for discovering publications digitized by Internet Archive Canada, to be a reference for future digitization initiatives and provide incentive to grow the list of titles that have been preserved and dedicated to the public domain.

Beginning in 2004, Internet Archive Canada began to digitize material from the Library and Archives of Canada. This work has continued steadily over the last decade as part of projects sponsored by: Ontario Digitization Initiative, Legislative Assembly of Ontario, Ontario Council of University Libraries, University of Ottawa, University of Alberta, and University of Toronto
